Intersect Certified for Supplier Diversity Procurement Programs

Intersect has been certified as a Women-Owned Business Enterprise (WBE) by the Women and Minority Business Enterprise (WMBE) Clearinghouse. This status makes Intersect a qualified vendor for supplier diversity procurement programs.

Mary Munger, Intersect's President and Chair of the Small Business Development Committee of the Telecommunications Industry Association explains, "Today's tough business economy makes it imperative for small businesses, to make the most of their qualifications. While Intersect was founded to offer premium products at low prices, WBE certification is another valuable differentiator for Intersect. WBE opens the door to new opportunities that will help our company continue its growth."

Founded in November 2001, Intersect's product line has grown to include integrated load centers with automatic transfer switches, integrated load centers with manual transfer switches, surge protected load centers, and surge protection devices. Within each product class, Intersect products can be configured to support 120/240 single-phase, or 120/208 single or three-phase VAC applications.
